Social Affairs Will Emphasize Idea of Washington's Birthday

MISS MAY MCROSKY.

CLOSE OF SOCIAL SEASON FINDS BRIDGE POPULAR

Ash Wednesday brought to a close the midwinter season, which was not particularly gay on account of the ban on large affairs made necessary by the fear of an influenza epidemic. All of the dancing parties as well as numerous dinners and other functions were canceled and the past few weeks were even quieter in a social way than the Lenten season will be. Bridge has come into even greater popularity than ever before, every night witnessing gatherings from four to a dozen in as many different homes, the bridge table, which supplanted the hall room, continuing to remain in favor, even though there is no longer any ban against large affairs.

It is rumored that Memphis physicians have discovered a new nervous trouble, attributed to too much bridge, but nevertheless it seems likely that it will continue to be the popular diversion until the beginning of the spring social season.

Among the first of the elaborate affairs of the season will be the Tennessee club ball, which the members plan to give either Easter Monday or the following Thursday, the exact date not having yet been determined by the members of the entertainment committee.

The birthday anniversary of George Washington will probably for the first time in many long years be especially emphasized in the services of many of the churches on Sunday. The music having been especially selected to do honor to the memory of Washington. Throughout the week also the birthday anniversary of the great leader will be suggested in the various social events. During the coming week there will be many affairs of interest, chief among which will be the wedding, planned by those of Miss Jean Hunter and Miss Anne Perkins, both of whom are exceedingly popular in social circles.

Miss Hunter's marriage to Dr. William Lycurgus Williamson will be very quietly celebrated on Thursday evening in the home of her mother, Mrs. James Franklin Hunter. There will be no attendant and only immediate relatives will be numbered among the wedding guests.

The marriage of Miss Perkins to Mr. William Goodlett, will take place at St. John's M. E. church on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, and will be a brilliant wedding. The bride's

LEADERS OF COMMODORE LAWRENCE CHAPTER ARE PUSHING IT RAPIDLY INTO FRONT RANK

It seems particularly fitting that Miss Ruth Frazer Brown should have been chosen as the recent Commodore Lawrence chapter, D. A. R., which is the protégée of the Commodore Perry chapter, of which her grandmother, the late Mrs. S. C. Toof, was for a number of years the regent.

Miss Brown, who is an unusually charming and talented young girl, and has shown marked ability as a regent officer, will represent the chapter at the Continental congress in Washington, where she was also one of the youngest delegates last April.

Miss Clack, who is the vice-regent of the chapter, will also probably attend the Continental congress. During her term of office she brought the chapter to a high standard of excellence and proved an exceedingly capable leader. She is one of the most popular and active members of the chapter and her home is frequently the scene of the chapter's social gatherings, which she makes particularly enjoyable as a very gracious young hostess.

On Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Allen will entertain the members of the Perkins-Phillips bridal party with a buffet supper, and on Monday evening they will be entertained by Miss Florence May Phillips.

On Monday evening the members of the Colonial Country club will entertain with a brilliant Washington's birthday ball at the Nineteenth Century club. The guests will have the pleasure of viewing for the first time the plans of the new club building, which will replace the former structure, which was destroyed by fire.

On Wednesday evening the alumni of the Central high school will complete the midwinter graduates with a dancing party, which is being eagerly anticipated.

On Thursday evening the members of the Rex club will be the hosts at an elaborate George Washington ball, at which several very unique features will be introduced.

On Saturday evening the dinner-dances at the Country club will be resumed, when a delicious spring menu will be served and will be followed by informal dancing in which the members of the various parties will join.
